EDITED BY MRS. ANN S. STEPHENS.

The Ladie-' National Magazine, is now so well established and so favorably known, that, . Premises by general consent of the newspaper press, it is

HEAD OF THE LADIES' BOOKS. Its literarp contets, like those of the three dollar Magrzines, are all original, and from the most celebrated American writers of both, sexes, The contributions to this periodical are a constant proof of the taste, and ability of our beloved countrywomen. No other magazine is so exclusively a mirror of their minds, or is so generally supported by them. The contents are of every variety, and while usually of the lighter kind, do not preclude the insertion of papers of more value. Fitted alike to the boudeir and the fireeide, the "Ladies National," presonts monthly an agreeable variety of domestic sketenpoems, critical notices of living authors, new receipts for the house-keeper, directions for fashoable embroidery, descriptions of the fashions, gossip sf our eastern metropolis, musical intellitranspiring during the ment's.

These contents, instead of being, like those of the other two dollar magazines, make up chiefly by selections from old newspapers and other sec- within the time limited by law for his ond hand sources, are written expressly for us;

CONTENTS ARE ALL ORIGINAL. As a guarantee of the style in which the literary department is conducted, the publisher has placed the editorial charge of the magazine in the hands of Mrs. Ann S. Stephens, acknowledged by all critics to be, the best magazine writer in the world. Those who have read her thrilling stories of "Alice Copley," "Malina Gray," "Ann Taylor," and "Clara," need no proof of her exalted genies. She will be assisted by the strongest corps of contributors ever yet arrayed in the constant support of any ladies' Magazine -At the head of this list is Mrs. Lydia II.
